- The Murfreesboro service is experiencing some overcrowding on two of the morning trips. Staff is shifting equipment and monitoring the service to help with this issue.

- A new report was added this month which shows month-to-month and fiscal year comparisons for all Nashville MTA and RTA public transportation services. This includes local bus and paratransit services along with regional rail and bus services. All are showing double digit percentage increases for the fiscal year comparisons with a 16.5% increase for all services combined. The services are on track to reach 10 million riders for this fiscal year.
